Sermons for Lent (Sermones Quadragesimales, artt. 193-204) attributed to Iohannes de Opreno OP (s. XIII<sup>2</sup>) and Thomas de Aquino (1225-1274) and by other authors.

Marginal notes in an unexperienced hand.

Parchment, ff. 246, 210 x 155 mm. Two weak areas in the parchment (at the bottom of f. 21vb and at the bottom of f. 56v) were skipped by the scribe and decorated by the rubricator with red ink.

Brown ink ruling for two columns of 35-38 lines below top line. Ruling type 46, with two supplementary horizontal through lines in the middle of the page, and all horizontal lines crossing the intercolumnary space. In the vertical row of prickings the prickings for the second line, the first supplementary through line and the last but one line are double.

Copied by one hand in Northern Gothica Textualis Libraria. Ascenders at the top line are lengthened, thickened and indented and decorated with delicate penwork.

Headings, underlining and paragraph marks in red. 2-line red plain initials, some filled with drawings of a human head; some are flourished initials with penwork in the same colour extending in the margin or in the intercolumnar space. The rubricator tends to place the short marginal notes in a red rectangular, diamond or leaf-shaped frame, or to link several notes on the same page by placing them in the loops of a curving line. Elegant pointing hands.

Original binding: red leather over slightly bevelled wooden boards, sewn on five leather thongs, rebaked in white leather, the corners repaired with brown leather. Marks of two leather straps attached to the rear cover; holes of the iron pins on the front cover. Iron chain of nine elongated links and large round eyelet (length: 82 cm.), fixed to the top of the rear board by means of an iron staple. The front pastedown is a leaf of a s. XII liturgical book on parchment, almost entirely covered by a bookmark (see below); the rear pastedown a piece of parchment with in giant Northern Gothica Textualis Formata (Textus Praescissus) the words “Dominus meus nos [co]ncedit”.

A few marginal notes in German point to Southern Germany or Austria as the area where the manuscript originated (f. 134v: “connubium: hochzeit”; “thorus: prawtpett”; “horror: mysleichkait”). On the front pastedown large armorial bookplate surmounted by a protonotarial hat, with the inscription “Io(hannes) Ern(estus) de Famagne, protonotarius apostolicus, sacrae theologiae doctor, cons(ul?) Pass(aviensis?), decanus et parochus urbis Waidhov(ensis) ad Theiam” (Waidhoven on the Thaya is a place in the north of Lower Austria, close to the Czechian border). Pasted on the front pastedown also a paper label with a short Latin description of the manuscript in s. XIX handwriting. Christie’s sale, 20 Nov. 2002, lot 22.
