Justinian, Digesta, with glossa ordinaria of Accursius

f. 1va //in ueram quantitatem fideiussor teneatur ... P[aulus. I.] Quotiens uictore cau//[tum]

Justinian, Digesta, 2.8.2 - 2.8.6; T. Mommsen and P. Krueger, edd., Corpus Iuris Civilis (Berlin, 1928), 1.50. The lower margin has been trimmed with the loss of approximately five lines of text. The recto is mostly illegible but includes text from Digesta 2.7.4 to the rubric of 2.8 in the first column and 2.8.1-2.8.2 in the second column.

f. 1vb //et diuus pius et etiam pomponius ... Qui mulierem adhibet ad satisfidendum non uidetur//

Justinian, Digesta, 2.8.7 - 2.8.8; Mommsen and Krueger, 50-51. The lower margin has been trimmed with the loss of approximately five lines of text.

Parchment (the recto is badly stained and rubbed from use in a binding). 1 folio. 184 x 232 (width of written space 115 mm). 2 columns of text surrounded by two columns of commentary. 30 lines remaining of an original ca. 35 lines. Lead ruling. Single vertical bounding lines.

Written in a rounded gothic script (littera textualis). Later marginal and interlinear notes. Initials of the names of authorities are 2- and 3-line blue capitals with red penwork and are set apart from the text. The initials of the first word of each section are 1-line red capitals and are not set apart from the text. 1-line initials within the text are in black and are not set apart from the text. Rubrics are written in red in the same script as the text. Paragraph marks are either red, blue or black and are set apart from the text when they occur at the beginning of a line.

Punctuation consists of the punctus. Hyphenation is in the same ink as the text.

The fragment was used as part of a wrapper for a volume measuring ca. 200 x 150 mm.

Zinniker 50-1.
