

YALE UNIVERSITY
BEINECKE RARE BOOK AND MANUSCRIPT LIBRARY
MEDIEVAL AND RENAISSANCE MANUSCRIPTS

MS 682

Italy, s. XV<sup>2</sup>

Cicero, *De finibus bonorum et malorum (fragm.)

f. 1r-v [uterque enim summo bono fruitur,] // id est voluptate. At enim hic etiam dolore. At ei nichil facit: ait enim se <si> uratur, "quam hoc suave" dicturum ... Traditur, inquit, ab Epicuro ratio negligendi doloris. Iam ipsum absurdum, maximum malum negligi. Sed que tandem ista ratio est? Maximus dolor, // [inquit, brevis est]

Cicero, De finibus bonorum et malorum, II.27-28. T. Schiche, ed. (Teubner, 1915; repr. 1982), pp. 72.29 – 74.23.

Parchment (goatskin), f. 1, 255 x 175 mm.; the hairside is on the verso. The modern folio (?) number "36" is written in pencil on the recto.

Rake ruling for one column of 28 lines below top line. Ruling type 31, the double bounding lines traced in lead, the horizontal lines in pale brown ink.

Copied by a single hand in a rather uneven Humanistica Textualis marked by frequent fusions.

No decoration.

Purchased Jan. 1988 from Maggs on the Wagstaff and Altschul Funds.